The beneficiary shall have the ownership of: the title; the industrial and intellectual property rights resulting from the project; the reports; other documents and materials resulting from it. The beneficiary shall, however, grant the MCVS, and in the case of VOPS the MEDE, the right to use as they deem fit the results produced directly by or deriving from the project.

4. Marketing Concepts

It is imperative that the beneficiaries implement all the marketing outputs included in the respective application form, whilst also endorsing the branding concepts of the MCVS and respective funding schemes. One should also include these concepts as part of the preparatory activities such as the procurement procedures.

The marketing outputs should be aimed in creating adequate visibility for the specific funding schemes within the national community. The target audience should vary from the general public, to the participants of the projects, always keeping in mind an inclusive approach for individuals with different abilities. The marketing actions should be designed to engage the target audience and the national community, communicate a simple message reflecting the salient content of the project and promote participation of individuals through an inclusive approach.

The marketing outputs should be disseminated through a variety of marketing tools such as local newspapers, television, e-newspapers, billboard, banners, Facebook, Twitter, organisation websites, you tube videos, project documents, signage and other marketing materials and merchandise.

A main marketing activity such as the launch or the closing of the project should be included in the overall marketing strategy in which officials of MCVS and MEDE are involved according to the specific scheme. When the participation of the representatives of MCVS are required, which participation is encouraged, the respective fund official is to be involved at an early stage of the organisation of the event to engage the respective participation.

The reporting on the marketing actions should be composed of narrative description, photos (e.g. of billboards, bus-shelters, etc.), screen shots of digital material and also submission of the products produced throughout the project (e.g. T-shirts, books, flyers etc.).

5. Branding Procedures

Since the official logos of the MCVS and the logo of the Parliamentary Secretary for Youth, Sports and Voluntary Organisations are being used, it is important that marketing material is published according to established guidelines.

As a general rule the logos should be placed in the following order (where applicable):

- ➔ Malta Council for the Voluntary Sector logo - Footer Far Right (in the case of CSF, SIS, TIS and YVWS) and Footer Far Left (in the case of VOPS).
- ➔ Funding Scheme logo - Footer Far Left (in the case of CSF, SIS, TIS and YVWS) and Middle (in the case of VOPS).
- ➔ Parliamentary Secretary for Youth, Sports and Voluntary Organisations or the Ministry for Education and Employment (MEDE) logo - Footer Far Right (for VOPS ONLY). This position is part of the Government branding procedures so it is important to place this logo always on the far right.
- ➔ Credits and Disclaimer text where applicable - Bottom of the page.

It is being advised that since the official logos of the MCVS and the logo of the MEDE, are being used, the marketing material may be sent to the respective funding scheme official for endorsement prior to printing and/or dissemination. In this case it is important that a stipulated period of five working days is respected prior to expecting the receipt of feedback or approval of the branded products.

It is the responsibility of the beneficiary organisation to act according to these guidelines.

The logos in high resolution are provided by the respective scheme Officers. Translated version of the logos and the credits will also be provided and these standardised versions shall be used throughout the initiatives.

6. Conclusion

The marketing materials used in all funding schemes should assist in dissemination of the content of the project, recruitment of individuals and also engagement of the general public. Important to note that should the beneficiaries encounter any other issues that were not outlined in these guidelines, the Funding Officers of the specific Schemes will be able to assist accordingly.

Should any marketing material, printed or otherwise, not be compliant with the above specifications, such material may be considered as an ineligible cost, which means that the relative cost will be deducted from the overall grant given by the particular funding scheme. Also, should the event/publication etc. falling under the granted project not be given the necessary marketing coverage, MCVS/MEDE reserve the right to take the necessary financial corrections with regards to the project grant.
