An Opportunity for Voluntary Organisations to improve the human resource capacity by investing in the formation and skills of Volunteers.

1.0 Brief of the Training Initiatives Scheme (TIS)

One of the main priorities of the Malta Council for the Voluntary Sector (MCVS) is to encourage Voluntary Organisations to invest in training and capacity building, of their members, volunteers and administrators focusing on strengthening the capability of Voluntary Organisations as part of the process of building the potential of voluntary organisations to respond to the needs of the community they serve. Through this approach organisational development aims to: (1) commit and improve management and technical skills through training (increasing knowledge), (2) change the operating procedures and/or restructuring within an organisation; (3) make the organisation effective and sustainable. Voluntary Organisations tend to be very adaptable to the societal trends leading to quick organisational growth and change. It is therefore important to ensure that there is sufficient capacity to implement changes within the organisation. This priority is aligned to the mission statement of MCVS stating:

“to support the development of a more effective and efficient voluntary and community sector in Malta and Gozo through the delivery of a range of support and capacity building services including information, advice and training.”

This can mainly be supported by providing Voluntary Organisations and volunteers with the resources and information they need, not only to do their specific volunteer position but also to be a bona fide member of the organization's team, by setting aside time for training. Many volunteers are charged with tasks that take a lot of understanding and knowledge to do properly.

Many times, well-meaning people will offer to help the organisation, but are lacking many of the skills the organisation needs most. In situations like these, when the organization needs many people with the same skills, the group might want to have some sort of formal training program. While enthusiasm for the cause is fantastic, this enthusiasm needs to be gathered and focused to truly meet the organization's objectives.

There is a lot of good work that can be done with minimal or no training. But the organisation that wants to grow and move forward doesn't really have a choice; volunteer training is an absolute necessity and a necessary building block in organisational development.

1.1 Objectives of the Scheme

The main objectives of the Training Initiatives Scheme (TIS) are to:

- a) Help volunteers improve their skills to undertake the voluntary work skilfully, ethically and efficiently establishing a minimum competency that all volunteers are expected to obtain.
- b) Provide volunteers with adequate skills that may be helpful on a personal level and contribute to their personal growth, lifelong learning and enhance their Curriculum Vitae (CV).
- c) Raise the level of professionalism in the services and initiatives implemented by Voluntary Organisations within the community.
- d) Promote active citizenship by fostering social inclusion and the active participation of people from all walks of society.
- e) Promote social inclusion and well-being, mainly through the empowerment and up-skilling of individuals.
- f) Raise awareness about Voluntary Organisations, their voluntary work and the Voluntary Sector in general.

2.0 Priorities, Eligibility and Procedure of the Training Initiatives Scheme

Priority 1 – Individual Volunteers Training Programs

2.2 Priority 2 – Eligibility for Voluntary Organisations to participate in the Scheme

- e) The training program shall be delivered by qualified trainers recognized in the specific field of training.

- h) While each VO is only eligible to benefit for the organisation in only one activity under each call for applications, a VO may submit more than one application per call. The VO shall be granted financial support under this scheme for the highest ranking application. Should there be unutilized funds under a particular call, a second activity from the same VO may be considered for financial support after all other eligible applications of other VOs have been exhausted.
