education entities. Although it's dedicated to new 'fresh' students, it also attracts returning students, and provides them with the opportunity to discover new organisations, companies and entities.

In a spirit of collaboration in favour of the voluntary sector, this year MCVS also cooperated with the Office of the Commissioner for Voluntary Organisations by sharing a stand at the University Campus in an endeavour to enhance our support to student organisations and support them with any guidance they may require.

Our presence at both the University of Malta and MCAST campuses gave us the opportunity to promote our initiatives – in particular, the Youth Voluntary Service and the Voluntiera Malta programmes. Moreover, our participation is intrinsically part of our efforts to advocate the value of active volunteering and the importance of active citizenship amongst young people, especially during this time when voluntary organisations are working to attract new volunteers and get back on their feet post Covid.

The poster for the National Volunteer Award 2022 features a stylized graphic of concentric circles in grey and red, with a black silhouette of a person climbing a ladder. The text is as follows:
