1. Introduction

This document is intended to guide beneficiaries of the various funding schemes managed by the Malta Council for the Voluntary Sector (MCVS). At present MCVS manages seven specific funding schemes which are being listed below:

The beneficiary shall have the ownership of the title; the industrial and intellectual property rights resulting from the project; the reports; other documents and materials resulting from it. The beneficiary shall, however, grant the MCVS the right to use as they deem fit the results produced directly by or deriving from the project.

4. Marketing Concepts

It is imperative that the beneficiaries implement all the marketing outputs included in the respective application form, whilst also endorsing the branding concepts of the MCVS and respective funding schemes.

The marketing outputs should be aimed in creating adequate visibility for the specific funding schemes within the national community. The target audience should vary from the general public to the participants of the projects, always keeping in mind an inclusive approach for individuals with different abilities. The marketing actions should be designed to engage the target audience and the national community, communicate a simple message reflecting the salient content of the project and promote participation of individuals through an inclusive approach.

The marketing outputs should be disseminated through a variety of marketing tools such as local newspapers, television, e-newspapers, billboards, banners, Facebook, Twitter, organisation websites, YouTube videos, project documents, signage and other marketing materials and merchandise. Any equipment purchased through any of the schemes is to be clearly labelled with stickers (or other more appropriate approved material), promoting the scheme, the MCVS and the Ministry responsible for the voluntary sector.

A main marketing activity such as the launch or the closing of the project should be included in the overall marketing strategy in which officials of MCVS and MIV are involved according to the specific scheme. The Official acting on behalf of the scheme should receive information regarding such events a minimum of eight weeks prior to the intended launches/closing/events relating the said Scheme. All publicity material related, is to be received at least 10 working days prior to planned dissemination/ publication.

The reporting on the marketing actions should be composed of narrative description, photos (e.g., of billboards, bus-shelters, etc.), screen shots of digital material and also submission of the products produced throughout the project (e.g. T-shirts, books, flyers etc.).

5. Branding Procedures

Since the official logos of the MCVS and Ministry are being used it is important that marketing material is published according to the established guidelines.

As a general rule, logos should be placed in the following order (where applicable):

- Malta Council for the Voluntary Sector logo - Footer Far Left
Funding Scheme logo - Middle.
Ministry logo - Footer Far Right.
- Credits and Disclaimer text where applicable - Bottom of the page.

It is important to note that since official logos of the Ministry and MCVS are being used, the marketing material should be sent to the respective funding scheme official, acting on behalf of the scheme, for endorsement prior to printing, publishing and/or dissemination. A minimum period of ten (10) working days is to be respected prior to expecting the receipt of feedback or approval of the branded products.

It is the responsibility of the beneficiary organisation to act according to these guidelines.

The logos in high resolution are provided by the respective scheme Officers. Translated version of the logos and the credits will also be provided, and these standardised versions shall be used throughout the initiatives.

6. Conclusion

The marketing materials used in all funding schemes should assist in dissemination of the content of the project, recruitment of individuals and engagement of the general public. It is important to note that should the beneficiaries encounter any other issues that were not outlined in these guidelines, the Funding Officers of the specific Schemes will be able to assist accordingly.

Should any marketing material, printed or otherwise, not be compliant with the above specifications, such material may be considered as an ineligible cost, which means that the relative cost will be deducted from the overall grant given by the particular funding scheme. Also, should the event/publication etc. falling under the approved project not be given the necessary marketing coverage, MCVS reserves the right to take the necessary financial corrections with regards to the project grant.
